

In the Eye of the Beholder

A program of women's films and discussion on self-image and society's ideal of "beauty"

Sunday, February 28, 1993
1:00-4:30 p.m.

Presented by
The Ewens Center for Women
Mount Mary College

What is beauty?

Who is beautiful — and according to whose standards?

What do women do, and endure,
to make themselves "beautiful"?

This unique program of independent films by women filmmakers will explore the relationships between women's self image and the standards of feminine beauty presented in advertising, movies and television.

THE FAMINE WITHIN      by Katherine Gilday      (90 minutes)

MIRROR, MIRROR      by Jan Krawitz      (17 minutes)

HAIR PIECE: A FILM FOR
NAPPY-HEADED PEOPLE      by Ayoka Chenzira      (10 minutes)

The discussion/reaction to the films will be led by Elfrieda Abbe, a free-lance writer and film critic; editor and publisher of Angles, a quarterly newsletter about women working in film and video; and contributing editor of Visions, a media arts publication.

Others participating in the discussion are Rebecca Bardwell who teaches women's studies at Marquette University; Sister Joanne Poehlman, anthropologist and chair of the Behavioral Science Dept., Mount Mary College; Evelyn Patricia Terry, Milwaukee-based artist who is curator of the upcoming exhibit, "The Black Family" at Marquette University's Haggerty Library.

Join us for a stimulating and thought-provoking afternoon!
Pre-registration recommended as space is limited.

Fee: $10
